Mrs. Jennie Campbell's Parlor En tertainment Described in Detail.

Dr. Jacobs' and Mr. Delzells Eyes Glued to Keyhole and Transom.

A WITNESS WITH A BLACK EYE TELLS A SENSATIONAL STORY.

Little Irene Campbell Is in Court Today and Merrily Prattles While Father and Mother Glare at Each Other-Efforts to Show Mrs. Campbell Was Forced to Go on the Street and Sell

One of the witnesses in the Campbell ha beas corpus proceedings for the possession of little Irene, the divorced couple's child, came into Judge Valilant's court to-day wearing a beautiful black eye. This same eye threatens to add to the sensations of a suit that abounds in nothing that is com-

Frank McCarthy is the black-eye's owner, He is a coachman and had been living with Dr. Jesse Campbell. He says he was to have sworn to the Peeping Tom act referred to in these columns. He was to have d through a window in Dr. house Mrs. Jennie Campfruitless efforts to dislodge Jacobs the globes of the chandelier with her pretty foot without detaching said foot from its ordinary associations.

THINGS BEGAN TO HAPPEN. But things continually happen. Detective Smith, prother of Mrs. Jennie Smith, got wind of McCarthy's strange visions. He soon had McCarthy bearing tales from the camp of the enemy. He knew every move that Dr. Jesse Campbell was going to every trump he held and how each was to be played. Mr. Smith promptly went to work and stacked the cards.

Mr. Smith was playing what is known as a 'sure thing' when something dropped. Dr. Jesse Campbell had his own little detective fall into the game. McCarthy, and so when McCarthy had made uhis trip to the Smith house, Thursday 3 night, so McCarthy states, Dr. Jesse Campbell met him in the basement of Dr. John Campbell's house, where he sleeps, and applied the full vigor of a righteous indignation where it would do the most good.

McCarthy says Dr. Jesse Campbell and Lawyer C. A. Smith, one of Dr. Campbell's attorneys, took him before Notary Public James Donohue and there that Detective Smith met him as he was tears over the grave of his sister in Calvary Cemetery and told him that "he would go in there too" if he did not do what Smith told him. There was also talk about his arrest.

morning McCarthy said Smith had never intimated him and that he had never seen Mrs. Jennie Campbell kick at anything or do anything unbecoming to a lady. His evidence promises entertainment.

When the case came up at 11:30 to-day little Irene, a blonde beauty, in a light woolen wrap toddled in with her mother. She was soon visiting about among her relatives, as happy as they were miserable.

DR. JESSE CAMPBELL CROSS-EXAMINED. Dr. Jesse Campbell took the stand for cross-examination by Judge Bashaw. "How long after it was awarded did you know that the custody of Irene was decreed to your wife?" he asked.

"About a month or six weeks after," w the reply. "Was you at the Court-house on the day

"What did your wife ask you for?"

"She asked me for the privilege of taking the child out for the day. I had consulted a lawyer and thought the decree was of no account. I did not tell my wife that if I gave her the child I had given up my only claim on her."

"Did you not tell your wife a young man had told you he had seen her come out of an improper house on Market street at 11 o'clock at night?"

"Did you not tell her you did not believe the statement to be true!"
"I did not. I said the man was an honor-able man and unprejudiced." A BLOW AT MRS. CAMPBELL'S CHARACTER. "Did you believe the statement to be

"That she was my wife.

Judge Bashaw asked if Mrs. Campbell ever kissed the baby and Dr. Campbell said she

"You had better leave the argument of the case to your attorney," Judge Bashaw said.

"He is a much better lawyer than you." A LOVE LETTER.

"Did you not write this after you had heard this statement about Mrs. Campbell visiting this house on Market street?" asked Judge Bashaw in his blandest tone.

The doctor admitted it. He denied that he went to his mother's house where his wife The doctor admitted it. MRS. FELTON DEFENDED.

Judge Bashaw asked what was meant by statements made that Mrs. Felton was an improper person. Judge Valliant ruled that this question was not warranted, as asso ciation has not been shown between her and Mrs. Campbell,

Mrs. Campbell,
"When you went to Mrs. Smith's to compel your wife to come home with Irene, asked Judge Bashaw, "did you not know that there was not a thing to eat in your house?"
"I know there was a grocery at the corner where I had an account, and where things to eat may have been had," was Dr. Campbell's reply.

IRENE RECOGNIZING PAPA. At this time little Irene, who had wandered rom her grandmother's arms, looked up a her father and said: "I see you up there. Then she went up to the witness stand, and her father took her in his arms and kissed her. She sat for a while on his knee.

The balf that Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Campbell attended when the child was 5 months old was at the Armory, Dr. Jesse said.

Judge Bashaw asked if it were true that there was no ball at the Armory Hall, where had they gone?

there was no ball at the Armory Hall, where had they gone?

Then Dr. Campbell thought they had gone to the theater. Mrs. Campbell was always willing to go, but did not always know where to leave the child. Dr. Campbell said he went on the occasion resolved to avoid a big fight with Mrs. Campbell's family, many members of which were always about the house.

REEFERENCE TO OSCAR PEPPER Judge Bashaw asked about Dr. Jesee Camp Judge Bashaw asked about pr. sesee campbell's own condition on April 9, the day he alleges Mrs. Campbell was intoxicated. He said he had not been drinking for months. "You know a certain bottled prescription labeled 'Oscar Pepper' I don't know what it contains—had you been drinking any of

Dr. Campbell said he had not.
Reference was made to Dr. Campbell's order than Mrs. Campbell should not feed the child. Dr. Campbell grew excited. 'I did order her to stop feeding the child the poisonous decoction Mrs. Smith had prepared to kill the child,' he said.
This was inquired into by Judge Bashaw. 'Was there poison put in this food?' he asked.!

"It was food that was killing the child," Dr. Campbell replied.
Evidence as to why Mrs. Campbell did not nurse her child was sought. Dr. Jesse claimed that she never wished to nurse it and that she did not carry out the doctor's MOVING REDUCED TO A SCIENCE Questions as to various places the witness had lived during his married live were objected to. It was offered to show that Mr Campbell had been "hounded about" and

Campbell had been "hounded about" and so persecuted that it was not a wonder that the child had not been cared for, but the wonder was that Mrs. Campbell had not jumped off the bridge.

The evidence was finally admitted. Dr. Campbell said they left Stoddard street because his house was so dirty that persons who were to rent the upper floor refused to live there. Removals were made to Cook avenue and Olive street. The second removal was to get board, as before Dr. Campbell was compelled to get his own and his wife's meals while she read novels.

Effort was made to show that Dr. Campbell moved away from Olive street because he did not pay his board. He claimed it was because he wanted a clean bed. He moved to Franklin avenue where he opened anjoffice. He was in partnership with Dr. Jacobs, but did not live with him.

"I will ask you," said Judge Bashaw, "If throughout the whole of your married life you did not fall to provide your wife with the necessities of life?" "I did not," was the reply. "I furnished the necessities and some of the luxuries." "Did you not destroy some of the clothing furnished by Mrs. Smith to your wife." "I did. Mrs. Smith to your wife." "I did. Mrs. Smith claimed she was supporting us. I wished to disprove this to the public."

back when received." I sent them back when received." Did you not order Mrs. Campbell to give your child to your mother?" "I did not. I begged, I beseeched, I commanded her to take the child and raise it." SELLING HIS WIFE'S WEDDING RING. Dr. Campbell swore that he wrote a note requesting Mrs. Campbell to return the child, which she had taken on separating from him. He said he sold the wedding ring, but gave the money to his wife and did not bet it on horseraces. He also denied it, and also that he had sent his wife out to peddle dim lovels.

AN EXHIBITION WITNESS. Judge Paxson asked the witness to explain f he did not clothe the young man McCarthy,

'put on exhibition here.''
The doctor said they were boys together. He nad seen him when driving on Glasgow avenue. He was poorly clothed and his naked fiesh showed. He said he was starving to death and had to sleep in barns, going there after midnight and had to get out at 5 a. m. to avoid the police.

Or. Campbell took him to a saloon tan ga ve nim a few drinks and then sent him to Mrs. John Campbell. He spoke to Mrs. Jennie Campbell and said he could tell things. Dr. Campbell said he did not listen.

THE HIGH KICKING STORY. A conversation at Dr. Jacobs' house wa referred to. Lena Jacobs was there. Jennie Campbell made her angry. "I'll tell on ou," she said. The doctor asked her what she would tell.
'1'll tell about her trying to kick the chan-daller." Of course there were no men around?" said the doctor.

"No, but Dr. Jacobs and Mr. Delzelle were out looking through he key-hole and trantsom, all right."

"What made Jennie do this?" the doctor hed asked.

"I guess she had been drinking too much wine." was the alleged reply.
The little girl, the witness said, threatened to tell when Mrs. Jennie Campbell was put out of a hack.

THE MARKET STREET HOUSE'S OCCUPANT. The Market street house, the doctor said was kept by Mamie Felton. This was the couse that Mrs. Smith was alleged to have

DIDN'T WANT THE CHILD.

Mrs. Myron W. Cook, whose husband is depot master at East St. Louis, and who resides at 1404 Garrison avenue, was placed on the stand. Had known Dr. John Campbell and his wife line years. They were excellent people and belonged to her church. Mrs. Cook visited the Campbells on Easton avenue and on Finney avenue. Mrs. John Campbell was caring for the child. Only once did she see Mrs. Jennie Campbell at Finney avenue. She never saw Mrs. Jennie speak to the child. It was most distressing in

'Mrs. Jennie Campbell spoke to me one afternoon in front of my residence," the witness said. "The diverce was mentioned. What about the child?' I asked. 'I am going to leave it with its grandmother. I would not take care of any man's child,' said Mrs. Campbell.'

'What do you know of Mrs. Jennie Campbell's general reputation?'' Judge Paxson asked.

Judge Bashaw objected. The witness said she could not say anything definitely on that head anyway.

Mrs. Jessie Hoffman. 1411 Glasgow avenue, one block from the home of Mrs. Hugh Smith, remembered Mrs. JohniCampbell's calling to see Irene in October last.

'Mrs. Campbell has just been to see the baby,'' Mrs. Smith told Mrs. Hoffman.''I hwd always let her see it, but she has said things about my reputation and I would not let her see it now.'' The Rumor That President Peixoto Had Been Assassinated.

grave yesterday.

The remains of Gen. H. B. Granbury of the Confederate States, who was killed in the battle of Franklin, Tenn., and who was buried on the ground, were reinterred yesterday at Granbury, a small town on the Fort Worth & Rio Grands.

Deputy Coroner Rohlfing held an inquest to-day on the body of Mrs. Catherine Coghlan, who died yesterday of injuries received by failing from a window at 3808 Finney avenue, the residence of her neice, Mrs. Eliza O'Hara. The deceased was 75 years old, and on Wednesday mistook the window in her room on the second floor for a door and walked through it. Her eyesight was bad. A verdict of accident was returned.

Several Cuts Found in Mike Wasches' Dead Body.

The Train Passed Over His Lifeless Remains Only.

EVIDENCE INDICATING THAT THE MAN WAS FOULLY MURDERED.

Developments in the Case of the Bussian Who Was Believed to Been Killed by a Vandalla Train at Collinsville-Had Quarreled With Some of His Fellow Workmen and Had Been Asked to Renew the Fight-An Unsatisfactory Coroner's Inquest.

COLLINSVILLE, Ill., Dec. 1 .- The horribly angled remains found by the side of the Yandalia track near the depot here Wednes-day morning have been identified as those of Mike Wasches, a Russian miner, and he is day morning have been identified as those of Mike Wasches, a Russian miner, and he is generally believed to have been the victim of foul play. Wasches came here from the old country just a few months ago on invitation of John Martance, another Russian, who works in the No. 3 mine of the Consolidated Coal Co. at this place, and who secured similar employment for Wasches as soon as he arrived in Collinsville. He boarded at he arrived in Collinsville. He boarded at Martance's house, near the mill pond, and worked regularly every day until last Tuesday. That day his pit did not work and that afternoon he went up town to the saloons and became involved in a quarrel with a fellow miner, named George Abokat. He went home to supper, and about 8 o'clock Abokat cailed to supper supp at Martance's house with two other miners, named Frank Glotse and Marchese Zither oyes, and invited him out to finis the fight. He accepted and the crowd honse which is run by Tony Ginzall on the top of a high bluff known as Plety Hill over looking mine No. 3 and the depot. WASCHES BOUGHT BEER.

Here more beer was drank and more fun was poked at Wasches. They put a chain around his neck and told him he looked like he did in the old country where he was Squire. Then they made him buy a ke 3of beer. When he refused to buy another keg one offthe revellers dressed up like a policeman him he would arrest him unless "set 'em up." this the desired effect and about 9 or 10 o'clock he was allowed to depart. Tony Ginzall says George Abokat went to bed and did not follow him, but that Glotose and Zitherboyes did leave the house shortly after Wasches did. At any rate, the last named was never see alive again. About 5 o'clock Wednesday morning a colored man named Duncan discovered the horribly mutilated body of a nan on the Vandalla track, about 140 yards west of the depot. The head, arms and legs had been entirely separated from body. The trunk wa mangled and lay ribly across the track with pieces of bloody flesh scattered in all directions. FOUND A KNIPE.

The body had evidently been struck by the limited mail, which dashes through Collins-ville at lightning speed about midnight. No one knew whose the body was, and so for the time no one suspected foul play. Later in the moraing, however, Duncan happened to walk further up the track and twenty yards from where the body was first found he picked up a big butcher knife with a long well worn blade. He turned his find over to 'Squire C. T. Pieper, who with "Uncle Johnny" Hatfield, an old wastdark F. Albracht the butcher and with "Uncle Johnny" Hatfield, an old resident. E. Albrecht, the butcher, and Philip Wutbert, a saloon-keeper, made a close examination of the body. They found three deep knife wounds in the body, one in the top of the head, one in the neck and one in the arm near the elbow. They placed the knife in these wounds and it could not have fitted better. They were then satisfied from further investigation that they made from the color of the dead man's skin. etc., that the man had beek killed and then deliberately placed on the track where the train could pass over him. Dr. T. W. Kinder of Nameoki, Coroner of Madison County, held an inquest on the remains the same afternoon.

A STRANGE VERDICT.

A STRANGE VERDICT. 'Squire Pieper and all the other gentlement mentioned testified to the knife wounds, mentioned testified to the knife wounds, etc., but still in the face of this evidence, the Coroner's jury, consisting of Bill Duckworth, Jim Smith, Geo. Schoettler, Frank Webster, Joe Kaine and Ed Shetley, returned a verdict that he came to his death from injuries inflicted by a Vandalia train. Then the jurymen got $\frac{1}{2}$ each and the Coroner hurried home. Since then his action has been severely criticised by the people of Collinsville. They think he should have sifted the matter to the bottom and at least have identified the knife. The general impression here is that Wasches was murdered and then thrown on the track and that some people here might know who was with him when he left the boarding house. Poor Walschers' body was identified by the fact, as one of the witnesses put it at the Ceroner's inquest, that he had 'no fingers on one foot,' Waschers leaves a wife and we children in the State of Urbark, Russia, on a farm. There is $21 in wages due him here.

Mr. McCune Was Not Arrested. Mr. Abraham B. McCune, who, it was alleged, had been arrested a few days ago on Fifth and Olive streets by Detectives O'Connell and McGrath in connection with a swin dling transaction in buying out a grocery store, was greatly surprised on reading of his arrest in the papers. He denies most emphatically that he was arrested on the occasion mentioned, or any other time in his life, and says that the charge connected with his name is absurdly false; that he has no knowledge of any such transaction as the one stated. Mr. McCuse is a well-known business man and the erroneous statement does injustics to a worthy gentle map. nell and McGrath in connection with a swin

Many Senators Impressed With the Importance of Cloture Measures.

MR. BLACKBURN WILL ATTEMPT THE NEEDED REFORMATION.

The Committee on Rules Has Taken N Action During the Becess, (but It Is Promised the Question Will Be Brought Up and Settled Early in the Regular Session-Hornblower and the Supreme Bench-Washington Affairs

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 1.-If certain Senators make good their promises there will be a decided and earnest effort at the approaching regular session to amend the nate so as to in a measure prevent resort to dilatory tactics and to pr for a closing of debate. The delay in the passage of the silver repeal bill had the eflect. incidental to most conflicts of great length in the Senate, of arousing a number of Senators to the importance of change which will place in the hands of the senate the power to bring any issue to close at a definite time and to make the majority the judge of the prope limitation of debate upon any subject. Senator Blackburn, Chairman of the Committee on Rules, became so impressed with the im portance of a reform of this character that towards the close of the extra session he asked authority, which was granted, for his committee to sit for the purpose of considering the question, with the view of suggest ing a course of action to the Senate. The nmittee has held no meetings during the congressional recess, but it is promised that the subject will be taken in hand at an early date after the convening of Congress, as Mr. Blackburn has announced his intention of taking up the question at as early a date as practicable.

The committee will find abundant material to work upon, when it meets, as there are before the committee no fewer than nine amendments looking to the accomplishment of the end in view. Of these Senator Hill is author of four, Senator Platt of two and Senators Voorhees, Hoar and Manderson of one each. A majority of the resolutions provide for a closure of debate and the others look to the determination of a quorum.

Senator Hill displayed greater interest in their object during the extra session than others, and he and Mr. Voorhees united upon that a majority of Senators can demand a bate in the Senate for thirty days. Others of Mr. Hill's proposed amendments look to the maintenance of a quorum, one by authorizing the presiding officer to count Senators present who refuse to respond upon a roll call to determine the presence of a quorum, other by authorizing the counting of Senators paired and present on a vote for the purpose of making a quorum. He also seeks to prevent recourse to another method of delay by prohibiting Senators from raising the question of lack of a quorum while another Senator is speaking, and also by providing that the question of the want of a quorum shall not, under any circumstances be raised oftener than once an hour.

Mr. Manderson's amendment is simply an amendment to Mr. Hill's proposed amendment concerning pairs.

The amendments of Senators Platt and Hoar look to the closing of debate, but differ in time and method from Mr. Hill's suggestion in the same direction. Mr. Platt's amendment provides that upon the written request of a majority of Senators at any stage of de-bate upon any bill the Vice-President shall fix a date for the close of debate five days af-terwards, and Mr. Hoar asks that after a bill day any Senator may demand the close and if he is seconded by a majority of the Senate the debate is to discontinue forthwith and the vote be taken after each Senator had an ortunity to speak once, not to exceed an

It is presumed that if any changes should it is presumed that if any changes should be recommended by the Committee on Rules they would be on the lines indicated by these proposed amendments, as they cover about all the ground. With power to count a quorum and to prevent the continued recalling of the roll, the Vice-President would be in a position to expedite the consideration of any measure, and with the additional authority to fix the day of voting upon sny given measure there would probably be no more ground for complaint of delay in that body.

authority to fix the day of voting upon any given measure there would probably be no more ground for complaint of delay in that body.

Those opposed to the changes argue that the complaint would be from the opposite direction, and that the country would soon come to have cause to apprehend more serious consequences from hasty legislation than it now has from tardy action.

If the question of the change contemplated should be taken into the Senate by the action of the committee, the country may expect to see one of the most animated debates ever witnessed in that body. It is a subject which has been frequently before the Senate and is one which never fails to arouse the strongest antagonisms and many personal allusions and heated word encounters between individuals of the contending forces. It has been so from 1827, when during the Twenty-seventh Congress, Henry Clay and Thomas H. Benton locked horns over a threat of closure made by Clay, when Benton denounced the scheme as an effort at gag law. The question also came up on resolutions introduced by Senators Douglass and Underwood in the Thirty-first Congress for the limitation of debate and subsequently by similar resolutions introduced in the Thirty-seventh Congress by Senator Hale, in the Forty-first by Senators Hamilin and Wilson, and in the special session of the Senate in 1873 by Senator Wright, During the Fifty-first Congress when the force bill was under no consideration resolutions of this character were almost as numerous as during the extra session of the present Congress.

during the extra session of the present Congress.

It is noticeable that in all the instances the cloture resolutions were put in at a time when the Senate was considering the subjects upon which the Senate was quite evenly divided and upon which strong feeling was manifested. It may also be observed that from 1827 up to the present time the various questions have successively been disposed of and that after they were out of the way the interest in cloture and resolutions looking to provision for it have uniformly diminished in equal proportions. Whether this will prove to be the case in the fifty-third Congress is yet to be determined. The Senators who have taken an interest in the subject say not, and it is possible that the subject has not sufficient vitality to

OWNBLOWER AND THE SUPREME BENCH WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 .- The meeting of Congress will be a relief to the Supreme Court of the United States if it attends to the appointrual delay in his appointment because the vacancy occurred during the Congressional recess and then because the Senate failed to confirm the nomination of Judge Hornblower after he had been appointed by the President. importance pending, most of them involving constitutional questions. Their consideration cannot be undertaken by the court until there shall be a full bench, as with only eight judges sitting there might be danger of an even division, which would be embarrassing. It is expected that Judge Hornblower will be appointed again very soon after the convening of Congress. While his nomination failed of confirmation, there were no charges against him and if there was personal or political objection upon the part of Senators the fact did not appear upon the surface. Hence it is argued that for the President to fail to again tender the office to Judge Hornblower would be to voluntarily cast a reflection upon him. It would also be unlike Mr. Cleveland to back down so long as there is a chance for success. So general is the belief that he will be appointed that no other name has been mentioned for the place. When Mr. Hornblower is again appointed it will soon become manifest whether his failure to secure a report at the hands of the Committee on the Judiciary was accidental or designed by the committee, It was given out during the extra session that the failure of the committee to take up the nomination was due to the fact that it was impossible to secure a full committee, but there was a belief prevalent and well founded that some of the committee to take up the nomination was due to the fact that it was impossible to secure a full committee, but there was a belief prevalent and well founded that some of the committee to take up the nomination was due to the fact that it was impossible to secure a full committee, but there was a belief prevalent and well founded that some of the committee to take up the nomination was due to the fact that it was impossible to secure a full committee, but there was a belief prevalent and well founded that some of the committee to take up the nomination was due to the fact that it was impossible to secure a full committee, the was a belief prevalent and well founded that some of the committ

Senator Hill, who is a member of the Senate Judiciary Commit ee, is expected to antagonize the confirm tion because of differences between himself and Mr. Hornblower, growing out of New York political complications, but the Judge's friends think that while those who oppose him may be able to delay confirmation, they will not succeed in defeating him, with a long-session of the Senate before them.

A goodly bulk of the wheat in store here. A goodly portion is owned respectively by H. C. Haarstick, President of the Barge Line, and J. B. M. Kehlor, the miller. Having the wheat thus concentrated in a few strong hands, it is believed, will have a steadying effect upon the market. The large deliveries made to-day did not weaken prices. In fact, higher prices were paid, cash No. 2 red selling at 59½c, which was %c above Wednesday's rate. There is said to be a large amount of the December deal still unsettled, the contracts for which are held by strong parties here.

NEW BELT ROAD.

Surveyors at Work in the County Selecting the Route.

SUPPOSED TO BE A C. B. & Q. PLAN TO ENCIRCLE THE CITY.

The Proposed Belt Will Take in Alton and Belleville and Include the Carondelet Bridge-The East St. Louis Bel Road Thought to Be in It.

Surveyors are at work in the county again on a route for a new belt railway to com-mence at a point north of the city limits and circle around the city to the west, coming in at Carondelet just north of Bates street and connecting with the proposed bridge. This was part of the plan of the Merchants' Terminal but their finances did not permit them to carry it into effect. By those who are in a position to know of the various railroad movements now going on in and about St Louis it is said that this new belt road which is being around the western outskirts city to connect with the proposed bridge at Carondelet is nothing more than a part of the plan of the Barlington to gindle the city on all sides and thus connect with every road that enters it.

THE CARONDELET BRIDGE. A short time ago the Post-Dispatch published an account of the project to build a bridge at Carondelet, together with information which proved conclusively that the St. Madison & East St. Louis Beit Railroad managers were the parties now making the soundings for a bridge at Carondelet. This little corporation owns the bridge building at alton over the Mississippi, which it has leased to the C. B. & Q. It had been popularly supposed that the "Q" owned the Alton bridge itself. This new East side belt will tap the coal fields and every road that enters St. Louis from the east, making a wide circle from Alton to Belleville and thence directly west to a connection with the proposed Carondelet Bridge over the tracks of the Belleville & Carondelet railroad, a little coal railroad now practically unused. Madison & East St. Louis Belt Railroad man

THE Q. IN IT. It is reported that the Burlington is behind this road and that it is behind the belt now being surveyed around St. Louis from the north. Just how soon these belt railroads will be built is a matter of conjecture. is little doubt. If, as is reported, the same parties will control the Belt on this side of the river as control the St. Clair, Madi son and East St. Louis Belt, the Burlington will have terminal facilities in St. Louis that could not be surpassed.

hor. 19. Burial private.

Miss Berkeley is a popular young lady and the announcement of her death brought many of her friends to the house to offer condolence who were surprised beyond measure when Irene herself invited them in. The family are at a loss to account for the wouldbe joke. It is hinted, however, that the young lady herself is the author, her object being to learn how many friends she possessed and to enjoy the sensation which would naturally follow the matter.

TRIED TO ESCAPE.

A Prisoner's Ruse which Failed to Work | The Dainty Little Woman of Japan Ras But Frightened the Deputies. Deputy Sheriffs Shehes and Dunn received

To-day when the court adjourned for the noon recess the deputies started to return the prisoners to the jail. They took one tatch of six prisoners to the jail and batch of six prisoners to the jail and returned for the rest. On entering the cage where the prisoners are kept it was discovered that one prisoner was missing. Cold shivers ran down the deputies' backs and a search for the missing man began. He was discovered hid under a bench in the corner of the cage. After the deputies had left with the first batch the prisoner had turned on the electric light, which is kept burning in the cage, and got under the bench in the hope that the deputies would not miss him and leave without him, when he would make his escape. His scheme failed, however, and he was dragged from his hiding place and taken back to jail. His name is James Parkens and he is charged with petit larceny. His case was not tried to-day, but was continued until Dec. 11.

dear little missive whose import was as follows:

"I come not as your Empress, but as the daughter of your fond well-wisher and coadjutor, and as your own anxious friend."

Shorn of all ostentation and display, the Empress arrived and remained beside her grateful subject until his final summons.

Some years ago, when the imperial palace was burned, the unselfish Empress, amid all the excitement and discomfort she was for the nonce called upon to endure in a hasty flight to a comfortless old yashiki, thinking first of her subjects natural concern for her comfort, sat down and wrote them a dainty little rhyme, which proclaimed as erroneous the report that she had changed her residence. It coyly asserted that her home had always been in the hearts of her people, and that she sincerely hoped that neither by flame nor by cold, could she be driven from that dear abode.

An Ill-Mannered Youngster an Abomi-nation to the "French of the East."

The Japanese of all classes hold an ill-bred child in great contempt, but the upper classes consider the mastering of their country's unpliant collection of motley codes of etiquette indispensable. There is in Japan a fear, a horror, of a mother's natural impulse to make the path of childhood as easy as possible for her wee ones. And for this reason up in separate establishments, where they and their manners are warily, continuously, harassingly observed and corrected at every turn by some trusted male friend of the parents, himself of noble birth. These rigidly reared little princes and lords have also an entirely separate band of retainers, who are expected to seem to exist only to do their little master's slightest bidding. I noted the manner of this when I went up to Nikko on the first train of cars that ever pierced, with seeming sacrilege, its dear, green, religious old heart. The alarming descration, occurring npon a popular feast-day, brought out an immense concourse of people of note. Among them was a little son of the Emperor, who, in a gorgeous crepe gown, was followed through the excited throng of on-lookers by a long line of his own private retainers. Six of these retainers—the best-built and fleetest of foot, the little fellow hotsted high on their shoulders in a brilliant gold-lacquer palanquin—ran or walked, according to quick commands given in the shrill, childish treble, or in response to a sudden wave of a tiny hand. and their manners are warily, continuously,

The conduct of this ideal woman upon a certain sad occasion her devoted subjects are never weary of describing. Prince Iwakura, a fearless Japaness leader in the momentous days of the crisis—from which the lovely archipelace is still trembling in its subsidence to what seems assured stability—lay dying in his yasniki. The Empress announced her intention of paying Iwakura a visit in person. The poor Prince, weak, and, as I said, about to die, was thrown into a dangerous state of excitement upon receiving the news, but he managed to borrow from some hidden nervous force sufficient strength to grasp his writing, box and brushes and to paint her an urgent but most respectful request not to think of coming to him. He forced upon her as an excuse for declining so great an honor the fact of his rapidly approaching death, and his consequent inability to acknowledge her visit with even a sixteenth part of the homage it demanded. He begged her to deign to kindly consider how ill he must be when it remained an impossibility to throw off the maiady even for her entertainment. In reply, winged with speed, came a dear little missive whose import was as follows:

How the Natural Color of Flowers May Be ravel, it is still worth republishing. The following ancient method which comes rom America as new may be worth repeating and trying: Take very fine sand, wash it erfectly clean, and when dry sift it through a good thing to take for this, as it his in every chink and cranny without breaking or bending the leaves. When the pan is filled solidly leave the flowers to dry for several days. It is a good plan to warm the sand in the oven before using it, as the flowers will then dry more thoroughly. In taking the sand off great care must be taken not to break the leaves, as they are now dry and brittle. Pansies preserved in this way will keep their shape and brilliancy of color all winter, and many other flowers can be equally successfully treated—anything, in fact, where the full pressure of the sand comes on both sides of the leaf; otherwise they will shrivel. To fill in flowers with cup-like shapes it is better to lay them on the sand and with a small spoon fill in and around each flower. Ferns when preserved in this way have a more natural look than when pressed, and the maidenhair fern looks aimost as well as when it is freshly gathered.

ago made the interesting discovery that the ozone in the atmosphere, the element which is the great purifier, was mainly supplied from blooming flowers—and for this reaon blooming plants were healthful in dwellings as well as attractive. Some interesting experiments with the odors of flowers have b een made in the Old World, and it is found that many species of microbes are easily destroyed by various odors. The odor of cloves has been known to destroy these minute creatures in 25 minutes; cinnathese minute creatures in 25 minutes; cinnamon will kill some species in twelve minutes; thyme, in thirty-five. In forty-five minutes the common wild verbena is found effective, while the odor of some granium flowers has destroyed various forms of microbes in fifty minutes. The essence of cinnamon is said to destroy the typhoid fever microbe in twelve minutes, and is recorded as the most effective of all odors as an antiseptic. It is now believed that flowers which are found in Egyptian mummies, were placed there more for their antiseptic properties, than as mere ornaments or elements in sentimental work.

Our Saints.

Tis not alone from legend and old story,
'Tis not alone from canvas dark with time.
That holy saints, crowned with celestial glory,
Smile down upon us from their height sublim

Not only from church windows, colored brightly, Do their blessed shadows fall across our way; Ab, not slone in niches gleaming whitely, With folded hands do they stand night and day.

Who is there in this world who has not, hidden
Deep in his heart, a picture clear or faint,
Veiled, sacred, so the outer world forbidden, O'er which he bends and murmurs low, "My saint."

A face, perhaps, all written o'er with sorrow, Whose faded eyes are dim with unshed tears; And yet the hopefully look toward the morrow, And far beyond is, into brighter spheres.

A face whence all the sunshine of the morning And brightness of the noon of have passed away; and yet, where clearly, surely, there is dawning The wondrous radiance of that perfect day.

That perfect day, when, crowned with heaven brightness, Without a pain or care or mortal need, With conqueror's paim, in robes of snowy white

Our blessed shall stand, as very saints indeed.

Yes, God be thanked, though the pure saints of story, martyrs that the artist paints

And hely martyrs that the artist paints
Are veiled in radiance and crowned with glory,
There still are halos for these unknown saints.

FEMALE TRAMPS. Three Young Women Who Are Working

From the San Francisco Examiner.
It appears that a number of women have taken to the road as tramps and are traveling toward California. They are said to be honest women who are in search of employment. There are three of them who are said to be headed for Sacramento, having traveled together from Portland. They wer without means and starvation stared then without means and starvation stared them in the face if they remained in the Oregon metropolis during the winter. It was a decidedly bold thing for women to do, but those three maidens determined to get to California in regulation tramp fashion. Accordingly they sailled forth and climbed to the top of the first freight train they came to, and, senting themselves on the edge of a box car, they allowed their feet to dangle along the side and waited for the locomotive to, and, seating themselves on the edge of a box car, they allowed their feet to dangle along the side and waited for the locomotive to roll away. It is said that a brakeman who was running over the top of the train was so paralyzed with astonishment when he saw the petticoated tourists that he almost fell overboard.

"Where are you going, my pretty maids," he politely asked, and galiantly lifted his hat.

The girls eold him plainly that they were going to California; that they had no money to pay their fares, and that they did not propose to be put off the train.

None of the train crew interfered with the women. At various stations the girls went about and begged food. At one place, it is reported, a tramp insuited one of the women, when the three sailed in together and gave him a trouncing that he will remember for many and many a day.

Carl lives at Inde endence and he found the revolver behind a stone wall at Benton Park, near that city. The weapon was deeply imbedded in the sod and may have lain where it was found since and may have lain where it was found since the war. It is a cap and ball Colt's, with a ten-inch barrel, brass mounted and is a good specimen of the best and most improved revolver in existence thirty years ago. It is in a good state of preservation, but not too good to have lain even for thirty years in the grass and moss of Benton Park. The half of the walnut stock that lay next to the ground is worm-eaten, but not rotted. The name "A. Tod" is stamped in the stock near the cylinder. Below the name are fine notches cut into the wood.

Everybody ramiliar with the traditions of this section when it was the frontier knows that the desperadoes in those times were in the habit of keeping tally in this way of the number of men they killed, and this relic may have once been the property of a "bad man," who maintained his own private graveyard. The upper half of the stock is badly worm-eaten and gnawed by rats or squirrels.

EXPOSITION FLYER

The train has been a profitable investment.

k a New Brand of It Works the Life Out of the Engineers Who Drive It. From the Chicago Tribune.

> It has brought a good return to the two roads, and it has also served to advertise them through the fastest schedule ever put into effect. It has been a strain on officials and employes alike. Train dispatchers have had to watch these trains without sleeping and engineers have grown old in the six months they have run. John Gulinger was the engineer who pulled the throttle for the last start to be made, and whon he set the air brakes at Elkhart he took a long breath of relief. He had completed the hardest work ever assigned to him, and he will be willing to run on slower trains from this time on and grow old less rapidly. To make the great run from Chicago to New York, the 96 miles between the two cities in twenty hours, including nine stops, nine engines of the heaviest and latest type were required and as many engineers to handle them. One hundred and fifty miles is a little more than the average run for one of the engines, and three hours at the throttle is a full day's work. Yes, even more than a day's work, for he comes from his machine so exhausted that he is given forty hours in which to rest up for the next run.
> Running on the Exposition flyer meant a speed on smooth stretches of track of from sixty to eighty miles an hour, and this means that the huge driving wheels, six and a half feet in diameter, must turn four times in one second. Besides being constantly on a meatal strain, the engineer had also to suffer bodily discomfort. As the engine rushes onward hot air filled with smoke and cinders blows back into his face with great force. Often a cinder enters the eye of the man at the throttle, but no matter how much pain it causes him he can have no relief until he reaches the end of his run. The strongest of the 'Exposition flyer engineers is almost in a state of physical collapse when he staggers down from his cab at the end of his run. stfain on officials and employes alike. Train dispatchers have had to watch these trains is almost in a state of physical collapse when he staggers down from his cab at the end of his run.

The old signals which were formerly used have been found almost valueless by the men who run these fast trains. The colors are confused and blended, so swiftly have the engines run by them. It has been found necessary to use such colors as are entirely distinct and to increase the size of the lights.

The experiment of stopping the flyer while at full speed in the shortest space possible has not been tried, but the engineers say it would take at least a quarter of a mile to bring the train to a full stop, and the necessity of signals which cannot be mistaken is therefore of the utmost importance.

All these facts have made the life of the engineer on the Exposition flyer one not to be envied, and when the trains reach their destinations to day no one will be more pleased than the engineers, who may now go back to slower trains and to comparative comfort.

CANADIAN BANK SYSTEM.

A Suggestion That It Might Be Profit-

From the New York Evening Post. The Canadian system fully meets the requirements of that country and we can see reason why it would not meet our wants as well although there may be room for still further improvement. The fundamenta principle of Canadian bank note issues is that they are secured by the bank's assets and the additional liability of the shareholders, and by a 5 per cent redemption fund lodged with the Government, instead of a deposit of Government bonds. On these easy yet absolutely safe conditions the banks are allowed to issue notes to the amount of their paid up and unimpaired capital. In this way a bank begins business with say $250,000 of capital. The 5 per cent redemption fund takes out $12,500 to be deposited with the Government. Then it may issue $250,000 of notes if the business community finds use for them. So its currency resources when it begins business amounts to $487,500. Now what is the showing under our system? The bank, principle of Canadian bank note issues is with $250,000 of paid-up capital, buys $220,000 of bonds at 118 or thereabouts. Upon this it is entitled to $198,000 of circulating notes (30 per cent of its bond security), but it must deposit 5 per cent of the amount in "lawful money" in the Treasury of the United States as a redemption fund. Then it has $188,000 to be applied to the discount of commercial paper. The difference in favor of the Canadian bank's customers is nearly $300,000. That is to say, the community served by the bank can avail itself of that much more currency than a community correspondingly situate. can avail itself of that much more currency than a community correspondingly situate in our country could with the same amount of capital, and in a financially safe way. It is not necessary to count up the profits to the banks in the two cases, although it would be easy to show that here, too, the balance is on the Canadian side. If the Canadian system is safe (and experience proves that it is), the interests of the community are caratally better served there than here.

PRUSSIA'S ELECTORAL SYSTEM.

It Is Based Upon Taxpaying and Bis-

march Says It's Bad. A newspaper correspondent gives some acd ount of the Prussian electoral system which Prince Bismarck is reported to have de-scribed as the worst in the world. It appears that each constituency is divided into a num-ber of districts according to population, and the electors of each district are divided into three classes, each class electing separately an equal number of delegates, who together elect in turn the parliamentary representative. The amount of direct taxes paid in each district is added up and the total divided by three. As many of the largest taxe payers as together pay one-third of scataxes form the first class, another batch of the next largest tax payers paying together another third form the second class, and the third class is made up of all the remaining tax payers and of those clizons who, aithough paying no taxes, are qualified to vote, and are for this purpose credited with a fictitious payment of 8 marks income tax. Such a system naturally gives an enormous preponderance to the moneyed classes. There are instances of one single elector paying alone one-third of the whole direct taxation in his electoral district, and his single vote in the first class consequently carries as much weight as that of hundreds in the second and thousands in the third class. In one of the electoral districts of the second Berlin constituency a citizen must pay 31,498 marks direct taxes to rank among the first-class electors. In another electoral district of the same constituency he has only to pay 12 marks to be in the first class. In one district relegates him to the third class in one district relegates him to the third class in another district. Anomalies of this kind are exceedingly common, and the whole system appears to fall little short of the grotesque.

AN UNCLEAN THING.

The latest Hawaiian literature is calculated to deepen the disgust of healthyminded citizens. It is so much more evidence against both parties to the rumpus, and in it can be found abundant reason for American non-interference in the leprous kingdom.

Ex-Minister Stevens again calls attention to the bad moral character of the Queen's supporters. Some of them are so very bad that he cannot describe them on paper, as a complete enumeration of their qualities would be unfit for publication. On the other hand, the opponents of annexation and American meddling who have studied the situation are equally certain that the revolutionists are acting from the basest motives. They are described as selfish grabbers who have already done the natives great harm and who sooner or later will drive them into the sea. Their interest in the island is not that of patriotic citizens who love their country because it is theirs, but only that of adventurers who are in Hawaii for what have no souls' he was not aiming espethey can take out of it.

We owe nothing to either party and it is of no consequence to us which one of them is least bad. They are both sufficiently condemned by their own stories. To interfere in their quarrel is only to befoul our own politics with their uncleanness.

BRICE AND THE UNION PACIFIC.

The appearance of Calvin S. Brice as Chairman of the Union Pacific Reorganization Committee is not a reassuring symp-

Mr. Brice is Chairman of the Senate Committee on Railways, and in this capacity is expected to give special attention to the interests of the Government in this case. Before all other duties he owes a duty to the people whose representative he is supposed to be, and he cannot very well serve the owners of the road while acting for the chief creditor.

Besides, Mr. Brice is better known as a railroad bleeder and wrecker than as a who make a business of "reorganizing" bankrupt corporations, does not qualify him for the discharge of duties which involve the closest adherence to the moral law and a most earnest devotion to the public good. If it is said that the Government should have a representative in the reorganization, the sufficient lanswer is that there are five Government directors and three receivers. Besides, the courts which now control the road are supposed sentation, the people cannot get their rights in the reorganization, they certainly cannot with Mr. Brice's aid. Of course nobody believes that the claim of the Government will be paid, and it husbands of these feminine delinquents, makes no difference whether Brice or Gould many husbands not being aware of the debts plucks the ninfeathers from the goose. PARTNERSHIP DISSOLVED.

The partnership heretofore existing beween the Sugar Trust and the United States Government is about to be dissolved. Notice of dissolution was given by the Chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means last Monday. This caused something like a panic on the Stock Exchange, and it is estimated that to cost as much as ever. He is not following those who chanced to be caught with the tariff schedule, being busy with his trust certificates lost nearly $10,000,000 by trust certificates lost nearly $10,000,000 by Having lost its strongest member the trust is likely to go to pieces, as it cannot very well maintain itself as a monopoly without the help of the silent partner.

This is exactly what is wanted. The nuch talked of anti-trust law, which Atcorney-Generals seem not to know how to nforce, was designed to destroy these ombinations and put business on a cometitive basis. But popular as is the law, t is practically a dead letter and the rusts go on plundering the people with-

The Sugar Trust panic is likely to be re peated among the other robber combines which have been created and supported by the legislation of the past thirty years. The Government is going out of business and, if the Democratic party is true to its principles, will not again interfere to build up private fortunes at the public expense The Wilson bill is only the beginning of this salutary reform

AN ERROWEOUS YAWP.

Be sure you are right, then go shead an howl. The cry that was immediately raised on the announcement that the new tariff bill favored the South, and that se startled many true patriots, seems to have been a mistake. An angry Southern journal—the Age-Herald of Birmingham—says Republican Massachusetts, Republican ennsylvania and Republican New England have dictated, in so far as the free list of the so-called reform measure is concerned, the bill returned by a Democratic Ways and Means Committee. The South has been hit from mica to pig iron; the Southern cotton oil mills and gin factories are not even free from a back-handed lick It is useless to say that all forms of ore, and coal in all its forms, from shale to coke and lumber from the log to boards, and wool from woolen rags and waste to the highest grade of that product, and ore in all its forms, are in the same condition. Pennsylvania even gets manganese free of duty." It was not to be expected that any protected industries, North or South, would be pleased with tariff reduction. There was no hope of pleasing them. In fact, the bill was made for the benefit of consumers, who are so largely in the majority in this country that they still imagine that they ought to have some rights.

THE FREE COAL BUGBEAR.

A cry has been raised that if coal is to be admitted free of duty the great soft coal mining industry of Maryland and West Virginia will be nearly paralyzed. It will not be altogether paralyzed, but nearly so. The mines of Nova Scotia, it is asserted, will supply New England and the result will be disastrons. Wages are to go down and so forth, and so forth. But while this Eastern note is soundin there comes another from the West. This Western note varies from tha which is sent out by the Eastern interest. It is a note of rejoicing. The Brazil Block Coal Co. is told that it crowed too soon over its combine, by which it was to have Chicago by the throat. And then we are told how Mr. McKinley's scheme has enabled the cruelest of the trusts to wring blood money from the poor, and the half-naked pitmen of the mines are asked if their wages have been raised by protected coal. The hope is exressed that with the new tariff bill made law we shall have no more of the vicious coal rings that have taken advantage of the people's necessities.

It is plain enough that we have conflict ng coal interests, but consumers must judge of what is beneficial. The protected monopolies have always raised the cry of wolf, and under pretense of keeping up wages have had everything they asked granted them in legislation.

The coal bugbear in Maryland and West Virginia is only one of many that are to be brought out to frighten the timid. Noththat a fair and just revision of the tariff must produce widespread ruin. The calamity howl is necessary to keep the Mc Kinley boom from dying, and we shall hear it early, late and often.

THE feminine collection agency was getting along very well in Louisville until it got some bills against women. Then a snag of the largst size appeared. The woman who is not in lined to pay a masculine collector will cer tainly never pay one of her own sex. She might take pity on some poor young mar endeavoring to make his living with a package of tough bills, but a young woman in the same business is quite another thing. The minine collectors, however, have a scheme which they hope to work. It is to go to the mestic trouble, but business is business, and feminine collectors must live.

THE duty on fire-trackers is not removed by the Wilson bill. This will, of course, like other omissions, cause both joy and sorrow. The insurance companies, nervous peopl and invalids demand a prohibitory tariff on all explosive crackers, but the small boy even though his sire be a dyed-in-the-high-tariff-wool protectionist, is a roaring free trader when it comes to fire-crackers or any other article capable of producing an irritating and exasperating noise. It is quite time, at least, that the nation should adopt a fixed policy in regard to the ariff. It has the McKinley law. It is very likely to see the Wilson bill become a law in short time. A test of each will presently result in the adoption of a fixed policy for the future. Under the Wilson bill manufactur ers, as a rule, have what will probably provi to be ample protection, joined as it is with free raw materials. American Bear.

Statistics printed by the Wes point to the conclusion that the lighter American beer is driving out the heavy British article even in the Colonial markets; and this fact affords one more striking ev dence that times change, and the tastes of men change with them. HAYDN'S "CREATION." Splendid Rendition of the Great Work by the Choral Society.

The fourteenth season of the St. Louis Choral Symphony Society opened most auspiciously last evening with a rendition of Haydn's "Creation." Soloists, choristers and musicians were all thoroughly familiar with the work and gave a clear and finished intervention. The audience was large and interpretation. The audience was large and very responsive, bestowing unstinted ap-plause on Mr. Eriesson Bushnell, the bass plause on Mr. Eriesson Bushnell, the bass soloist. To a most imposing presence Mr. Bushnell adds the possession of a superb voice. His method is superb. He is one of the few artists heard here who possess the really grand style. The triumph of his art is that he can rise to the requirements of the score and animate she notes allotted to him withcut changing them to suit any deficiency in his voice or method. The result is that he expresses adequately the idea of the composer. Mr. Bushnell is a very satisfying artist. Mr. Mockridge and Misa Muddon sang their numbers with pleasing effect. The chorus though not large was very strong. They showed thorough familiarity with the score and in attack and shading were all that could be desired. The orchestra gave a very adequate rendition to the beautiful descriptive passages of the work.

The Attitude of Mgr. Satolli on That Important Question

FEXT OF AN ADDRESS DELIVERED AT GONZAGA COLLEGE

le Says All Americans Recognize the Value of Catholic Institutions of Learning and Wish Them to Continue and Progress - The Welfare of the Commonwealth Advanced - Religious

WASHINGTON, DAC., Dec. 1 .- It has stated upon more than one occasion that Mgr. Satolli, the Papal Delegate to the United States, was unfavorable to Catholic chools. Here is an expression from Mgr atolli himself, delivered yesterday to the faculty and students of Gonzaga College: "The whole American people give thanks to-day to the Almighty God, whose kind providence continues to spread its be on this glorious republic. As all power comes from God, so must we acknowledge as coming from God prosperity, fruit or peace and victory, fruit of duty performed. Now, this is the reason why Holy Scripture calls God sometimes the God of hosts, some times the God of peace charity. The kingdom of Chris earth is the greatest manifesta-tion of divine providence, and therefore the tribute of gratitude, when offered in the name of Christ, is more acceptable to the Almighty Father, and the prayer offered in Christ's name is more efficacions to obtain ever-increasing benefits for a more and more prosperous future. And really we Catholic enefits of God and to thank him for them. Since Catholics should be the most faithfu and constant followers of religious and amples to all who do not share in their faith they have, indeed, good reason to be proud and to think themselves privileged to con form on this day to the President's solemn invitation and to thank God for protecting and speeding the American Republic The teachings of St. Paul to the Romans The teachings of St. Paul to the Romans, and the teachings handed down by the early fathers of the Church to the faithful, namely, that they should pray constantly for the peace and prosperity of the Commonwealth, are the same teachings which the Catholic Church (faithful guardian of the ancient traditions) repeats to day and insists on being observed by her children. Moreover, we have the important duty as citizens of this republic to show by the sincerity of our action that we are worthy of enjoying the freedom and prosperity of this noble land. And for this reason you, pupils of the Gonzaga College, could not have selected a better day for a reception to the Apostolic delegate than this Thanksgiving Day, devoted to a social recognition of God. "Among the Jews and Romans and Greeks no feast was celebrated without the cheerful participation of the young. The joy which radiates from the souls of youth on festival days, and likewise the grief which they show in the days of mourning, maturally create the same sentiments among the masses of the people and seem to be a more pleasing offering to the heavenly throne, and to bring thence down to earth the graces and favors God.

In the days of Augustus, the poet Horace.

thence down to earth the graces and favors God.

In the days of Augustus, the poet Horace composed a hymn, "Carmen Seculare," to be sung by the boys and matrons in the streets of Rome, and that is one of the noblest productions of the Muse of Latium. And your present celebration and songs rise above all other voices which from every part of the country are directed to heaven in thanksgiving for the past, in prayer for the future. We may be sure of this, that all the Americans of whatever church they may be may be members. ant chizens educated in those schools do not all short in knowledge and in love of the insertion Constitution; that they do not lag tehind the most progressive of American peo-le; that they are endowed with attacliness of character, with constancy of right purpose; that they are just settly charitable and hat they are just settly charitable and that they are just, active, charitable and generous anto sacrifice.

"Such, then, is the magnificent spectacle presented to America by the Catholic schools, not unlike the spectacle given by the first Christians to the whole world in the early centuries of the church. In those days it looked as if pagans and philosophers might despise the faith and calumniate the customs and religion of the Christians, but in reality they could not conceavery long their judgment, nor hide their astonishment at the spectacle of the social and religious virjudgment, nor hide their astonishment at the spectacle of the social and religious virtues reached by Christians. How advantageous it would have been for the public welfare if they had favored the new religion instead of persecting It; If they had recognized and fostered harmony between Christian truth and morality on the one hand and on the other hand the spirit of social and public life. It was impossible at the time to bring about this harmony because the civil constitution was imbued with errors and superstitutions, and because it was believed, with no good reason, that ruin of the State would follow inevitably the disappearance of those superstitions. But thanks to God and glory to the men who inspired the American Constitution, such a state of things as obtained in Rome is not possible here.

"And I will say that whoever seriously meditates on the principles of the American Constitution, whoever is acquainted with the present conditions of the American Republic, should be persuaded and agree with us that the action of the Catholic fath and morality is favorable in every way to the direction in which the Constitution in the more the action of the Catholic faith and morality is favorable in every way to the direction in which the Constitution turns, for the more the public opinion and the Government will favor the Catholic schools, more and more will the welfare of the common wealth be advanced. The Catholic education is the surest sateguard of the permanence throughout the centuries of the Constitution and the best guide of the Republic in civil progress. From this source the Constitution will gather on that assimilation so necessary for the perfect organization of that great progressive body. organization of that great progressive bod which is the American Republic. That is t that assimilation so necessary for the perfect organization of that great progressive body, which is the American Republic. That is the sincere expression of my conviction, and, so to speak, the profession of my conviction, and, so to speak, the profession of my faith in this matter.

"Un to the present it has been inexplicable to me, and never, perhaps, shall I find out what was the origin of the suspicion that my views were not favorable to Catholic schools. Those who, at fars or ever after, have attributed to me such an absurd opinion ought to point to some word or action of mine to justify themselves. Had I spoken differently I should be unfaithful to my mission, unsrateful to the generous hospitality which I have enjoyed and amenjoying in America; and, moreover, I should have given the lie to my first and unchangeable convictions. Every Catholic school is a safe guardian of youth, and it is at the same time for the American youth a place of training where they are brought up for the advantage of Church and country.

"Grant heaven that the Catholic schools may continue, increase in number, grow stronger, reach the highest perfection, endowed with the biessings of God, commanded by the authority of the church and the holy father, honored and appreciated by every honest clitzen from the illustrious President down to the most bumble workman. Those only are against them who do not know them, or who are not animated by the spirit of the church, and are wanting the sentiments of true liberty. This College of St. Aloysus well deserves to be situated in the sent of the Federal Government, and we may say to rest under the shadow of the Capitol. Toung men, you have before you the great and noble array of those who have soue before you, and who are to-day able and honered citizens. Without endeavoring to offer a positive solution, he hopes to apply the principles of ethics in a way that may at least add some further enlightenment. The subject for the coming Sunday is, "When We Spend Our Money How Can We Do it at the Same Time in Such alway as Best to Help Our Fellow Men?" It will have reference to the present conditions of the world; will apply alike to the laborer and the man of wealth. A week from Sunday he talks on the subject, "The Problem of the Unemployed." He hopes to bring together facts and figures with reference to it from all over the United States. The series will conclude by a lecture in the same line on the question, "What Should Be the Relation of the Government to the Labor Problem and to the Problem of the Unemployed?" After that will follow a service on the fourth Sunday of December, with the Ethical Sunday-school on the platform, when the young people with the lecturer, will render a responsive exercise entitled, "The Perfect Heart," Illustrating the kind of work done by the Ethical movement for the mornal education of the young.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 1.-Mr. Joseph G. V. Morrison, who was reported as having been mobbed in Winchester, Scott Co., Ill., on Tuesday night for an attempted criminal assault on Gertie Markeille, a 15-year-old girl, has returned to his home in this city. Mr. Morrison states that he was not mobbe and was guilty of no act that would call for such a proceeding on the part of the people

The report of the mobbing originated at The report of the mobbing originated at White Hail, and Mr, Morrison explains that it probably grew out of a little fracas that occurred Tuesday night at the Winchester depot, in regard to which he makes this statement; 'I had been at the residence of M. L. Markeille. A dealer in musical instruments, that night and tuned an old plano. The girl, Gertie, and I had some words about the plano and the girl became angry and told her brother after I left. The brother came down to the depot and assaulted me there, but didn't hurt me any. I never attempted to assault the siri in any manner.'

HERBERT'S REPORT.

The Standing of the United States Navy at the Present Time.

COMPARED WITH EUROPE IT MAKES A RESPECTABLE SHOWING.

Since the Last Annual Message of the Secretary of the Navy Was Made Six New War Vessels Have Been Com-pleted and Nine Launched-Some Interesting Figural.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 1,-The annual report of the Secretary of the Navy was laid before the President to-day. Upon the construction of the new navy the report con-tains some valuable information. While we are considerably behind some of the leading turopean powers in this particular, our navy is powerful enough to command respect. have been completed and nine launched. The six newly commenced vessels are the Monterey, 4,138 tons; Bancroft, 838 tons; Machias, 1,050 tons; Detroit, 2,000 tons; New York, 8,150 tons, and the Castine, 1,050 tons. The nine ships are the Columbia, 7,350 tons which has been completed, and which is now known as the "queen of the seas," because inary trial; the Marblehead, 2,000 tons; the Olympia, 5,500 tons; the Cincinnati, 3,183 the Katahdin, 2,183 tous; the Indiana 10,200 tons; the Massachusetts, 10,200 fons the Minneapolis, 7,350 tons, and the Oregon, 10, 200 tons.

To show the progress thus far made in our naval development, Secretary Herbert ining the naval standing of every leading power in the world. These tables are here condensed into one, the vessels unfit for war service being eliminated

States now ranks seventh as a naval power Of the present condition of the ships no being constructed Secretary Herbert says The work of construction on the coast-de-fense battle-ships Indiana and Massachu-

The work of construction on the coast-defense battle-ships Indiana and Massachusetts, of 10, 200 tons each, is progressing satisfactorily. The former vessel is the more advanced toward completion, and it is anticipated that she will be ready for trial by June of the coming year. The coast-defense battle-ship Oregon, of 10, 200 tons, has been launched, and work is being pushed on her as rapidly as possible.

Work on the protected cruiser Minneapolis, of 7,500 tons, is being rapidly pushed. The second-class battle-ship Maine, of 6,648 tons, has had a trial of her engines, and her armor is now being put in place. It is expected that she will be ready for a sea trial in about six months. The work on the second-class battle-ship Toxas, 6,300 tons, is progressing as rapidly as possible, and the vessel will probably be ready for her sea trial within six months. The progress of work on the double-turreted monitor, Puritan, of 6,000 tons, is satisfactory, and it is expected that the vessels will be ready for trial about July inext. The double-turreted monitors Ferror. Amphirite and Monadnock, of 3,000 tons each, are approaching completion in the order named. It is believed that they will be ready for trial arring the first half of next year. Work on the protected cruisers, Oincinnati and Raleigh of 5,188 tons each, is progressing with as much dispatch as possible, and both vessels will be ready for trial by March next. The cruiser marbiehead of 2,000 tons, is so far advanced that the department expects that her acceptance trial will take place within a short time. The cruiser Montgomery, of 2,000 tons, was taken up to Long Island Sound in October last for her trial irrip, and was accidently ruh aground before the trial began. The heavy speck sustained from her contact with the rigged bottom caused injuries which will not be repaired for some weeks to come. The accident, however, resulted in demonstrating the excellence of the material of which she is built. The contractors, in whose hands she was at the time, and who were responsible for the mishap, are making the necessary repairs. The armored harbordefense ram Katahdin, of 2,188 tons, will be ready for trial about Jan. 1, 1895, by which date it is expected that her armor will have been delivered and bolted in place. The torpedo boat Ericsson should be completed by, the end of the present fiscal year. The seagoing battle-ship lowa, of 11,296 tons, will be completed, from present indications, by Feb. 1, 1896, and the armored cruiser Brooklyn, of 9,130 tons, about six months later."

The progress of development in the construction of the navy, heretofore authorized, is thus shown to be so well advanced as to make it possible to give a definite idea of the oost to the Government. To show this he presents the following statement of the cost of vessels completed since March 4, 1895. The cost, including armor, equipment and premiums:

The gun plant at this establishment is not surpassed by any in the world, and increased experience has resulted during the past year in still greater economy in all branches of manufacture. Up to the present time there have been completed for service 237 guns, ranging in caliber from 4-inch to 13-inch, all of which have not only proved successful upon trial, but have also given results which show conclusively that the general system of construction employed has no superior in foreign countries.

For the new vessels thus far authorized main battery guns will be required as follows.

The Race Track War Across the River Commenced.

CHEAP GAMBLING SEEMS TO BE EN COURAGED AT BOTH TRACKS.

An Enormous Throng Spent Thanksgiv

The race-track war across the river was inaugurated in real earnest yesterday, when the Madison Turf Association meeting, which is expected to continue an indefinite period, was commenced. As far as the crowd was concerned, the Merchants' Bridge course had much the best of it, although this, of course, was expected. An immense throng, estimated at nearly, if not, 10,000 persons, was present and enjoyed some fair sport, over a slow track. Seven books, including the slates of W. H. Cheppu, Davis and Shepherd, Dave Silver and Charley Spink, were in line to handle the money. Tom Walsh and Pat Newman operated the Eastern book with much success, Many favorites were bowled over, all over the country, afternoon for the foreign book patrons. It is on this play the tracks across the river mak their money. The local races have been run at a loss from the start almost at East St. Louis. The transportation facilities to Mad ison yesterday were all right, but the Terminal company made a poor job of it bringing the big crowd home. In a day or two, how ever, everything will be running smoothly.

were accepting 50 cent bets and this play was very heavy. It is claimed that the taking of 50 cent bets was decided upon when the East Side management announced that bets would be accepted in their not be catered to by either track. It en courages a class to gamble that have n business doing so, and will only result event ually in ruining the sport with the general public. The cheap pool room gambling operated down town in connection with the Fair Grounds fall meeting is what caused the closing of this track, and the tracks across the river will kill their own game if they do not discontinue encouraging cheap gambling.

Madison's judges yesterday were L. P. Tariton of Latonia and Joseph Swigert of Louisville. These two able critics pronounced the opening day's programme and the way in which it was carried out a most surprising affair. They did not anticipate any such gathering, neither did they look for such excellent racing as was furnished.

Johnnie Görman has been reinstated and is in the saddle again at East St. Louis.

Legislate Against Foot Ball.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 1 .- There is trouble ahead Already two members-elect of the next Legislature have announced their intention of presenting bills looking to the radical reguation, if not absolute suppression, of th game in this State. The almost daily reports of broken limbs, and not infrequently fatal casualties, has had its effect. There will doubtless be lively opposition, however, to the measures.

A SAD SCENE.

Her Husband and Children With Her When She Died-The Body Remains in the Fullman Sleeper, and an Undertaker Notified-A Pathetic Family Group.

The morning roar and hurry of [Union Depot traffic was at its height. The scene was a gigantic galeidoscope of animation. Life, vivid and relentless in its sweep, was the vital element of the swift-changing and confusing tableau. The life of humanity and of mechanism, the baste of people and of ing whistles.

stence of a great city, the scene of the quarter whereat the colossal hive discharges its outgoing denizens and wherefrom it draws its new supply of humanity. The arrivals and departures, the flight and the gaining of refuge went forward to the stately rhythm of a living chorus whose sonorous accompaniment will never be fitly repro duced on any other stage. It was the climax and the exaggeration of E. M. Proctor, removed. Dougherty and Frank Heigoth, alias Florence, charged with obtaining money the thousands of strangers who meet there for a wild moment and then separate; terri fying because under it all, under the faces the shouting, the reality of movement and of intense existence, there is always the undercurrent of tragedy, inseparable from

The rumble of trains, the shouts of trainmen, of hucksters, of newsboys, of cabmen the cries of women and children, the greet-ing and the god-speed of friends and kin k, arose from this scene in a vast depressgregated humanity, it was sad, not cheerful ecause the monotone of tragedy was always

To-day this ery was rising, and amidst its swell, tragedy came in.

Panting and travel-stained from its long journey, the Iron Mountain Special from the City of Mexico was among the trains which came rushing into the Union Depot this norning. It halted in range, along the platform, engineer and firemen swung down out of the cab, conductors sprang from the steps of the cars, |passengers swarmed out from

of the cars, ipassengers swarmed out from every door and exit.

In a few moments the train was deserted. Deserted save by one little group.

In the drawing-rocm of the Pullman sleeper "Larede" this group remained when all others had gone. It was a family gathering, the saddest that can be seen in all the sad pictures of life—a husband and little children gathered about the dead body of a wife and mother.

The crash and roar of Union Depot traffic went on around them, but they heeded it not. Death in their midst had numbed and almost paralyzed the recognition of life.

The little family had been speeding onward towards its home, hoping to gain that haven with its circle still unbroken; running a pathetic race with death. But death had won the race.

pathetic race with death. But death had won the race.
The office of the Pullman company was notified of the death in the car "Laredo."
The policemen on duty at the Union Depot made their official report of it.
To the newspapers of the city the report, baid and cold in its bare outline, was hurried. It read:

DIED ON A TRAIN. DIED ON A TRAIN.

Mrs. Mary Jenkins of Alexandria, Me., died on an Iron Mountain train at 7:40 o'clock this morning, on her way home from Mexico where she had been taken by her husband for her health. Mrs. Jenkins was 45 years old and died of consumption. Her husband do two children were with her when ashe died. When the train reached St. Louis, was engaged to take shage of the an undertaker was engaged to take shage of the old/, which will be taken to Alexandria for And so the story was told. The trio came here from Chicago several days ago, they allege, in search of work.
Late last night they were arrested on Tenth street and Franklin avenue with a screw-driver and a chisel in their possession. ANOTHER SENSATION.

Metion for Discharge of Another Juror In the Coughlin Trial.

CHICAGO, Ill., Dec. 1 .- The Coughlin case furnished a fresh sensation to-day when Judge Wing, attorney for the defense, moved at the opening of court that Juror Fred C. Rehm be discharged. Evidence was presented to show that Rehm had sworn falsely in his examination in saying that he was in roledo during the time of the Cronin murder. Judge Wing filed affidavits that Rehm was in Chicago at the time and attended Dr. Cronia's funeral. This immediately following the dismissal of two jurors at the reques of the prosecution, leaves the case in a chaotic condition almost unprecedented.

How Tom McCarty Could Shoot.

From the Pertland Oregonian.
For years Baker County was the home of Tom and Bill, brothers, and Eck and Fred. sons of Bill, and numerous followers. Tom and Fred were recently killed by Simpson at Delta, Collo., after having robbed the bank there. Tom was a character in his way. He had received his education in the mining camps of the Rocky Mountains, and it was a recognized fact that nobody could get the drop on him. He could pull a gun and fill a man full of lead before the swiftest cowboy in the country would be ready to shoot. As a trick shot he had no equal. To an officer who called to arrest him once he gave an exhibition of snooting that made his hair fairly stand on end. Placing the ace of cluss on the wall, he stood at a distance of thirty feet, drew his revolver, twirled it around his finger as rapidly as he could, and riddled the ace with bullets. Not one hit the white part of the card. Mot once did he touch the trigger, contenting himself with pulling the hammer back with his thumb and then letting it go. Then he tossed his hat twenty feet in the air and pierced it with six bullets before it touched the ground.

Capt. Amery of the schooner Origin, which has arrived at Plymouth from Labrador with fish, reported that while on the outward voyage from England the vessel was atvoyage from England the vessel was attacked by a swordfish, whose sword penetrated the hull and broke off as the fish attempted to withdraw it. The fish then turned several somersaulits and disappeared, as if either stunned or killed by the force of the shock. The sword left in the size of the ship measured eighteen inches, Before Newfoundland was reached the vessel made over a foot of water, and the crew are of the opinion that if the fish had succeeded in withdrawing its sword the vessel would have foundered.

WOMEN OF FORTUNE.

Princess Colonna and Her Worthless Husband-Mrs. Hammersly and Her Millions SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Dec. 1.—Princess Colonna, Mrs. Mackay's daughter, and stepdaughter of the Bonanza king, is well known in Frisco. A prominent member of society, who knew the Mackays in Virginia City in the old Bonanza days and has continued her ntimacy with the family ever since, says of the old Bonanza days and has continued her intimacy with the family ever since, says of the marriage and its failure

'No father could possibly bemore indulgent than Mr. Mackay has been to his step-daughter. I do not think, though, that the Prince's gambling habits had anything to do with the trouble. After her daughter's marriage Mrs. Mackay was a frequent visitor at Colonna Palace, and each of her visitor at Colonna Palace, and each of her visitor at the most delighted grandmother one could imagine. She had had the baby's trouseau made in this city at a cost of $1,600, and in various other ways she gave appression to her delight. She took up her residence at the palace, and I fancy that was the beginning of the dissensions. Mrs. Mackay, you see, is a—a—well, a very strong-willed woman, ambitious, and with any amount of confidence in herself, and even the management of the great Colonna Palace would not seem to her beyond her capacity, especially when her own daughter was mistress of the mansion, and that daughter is lying ill and unable to direct affairs herself. I have been told that the Frince resented the interference of his mother-in-law, and that several decidedly interesting debates on the subject took place between them. Anyway, Mrs. Mackay, I believe, took her departure some time before she intended to, and after that her visits were less frequent and of shorter duration. Since the birth of Eva's last child they have censed. This may or may not be the cause of the trouble, but I am of the opinion it is.

''One thing the newspapers have all wrong, and that is the statement that Evn received no dot upon her marriage. I know for a fact that Mr. Mackay gave her $500,000 in United States bonds for her wedding portion. Besides this, he has provided her with ample funds since her marriage, in addition to paying the Prince's gambling debts.''

THE DUCHESS OF MARLBOROUGH. London, Dec. 1.—The announcement that the Duchess of Marlborough, formerly Mrs Hamersley of New York, is soon to marry Hugh MacCalmont, the rich turfman, does ot surprise the friends of the Duchess. Mac-Calmont is a nephew of Earl Cairns, who died on April 2, 1885. Earl Cairns was a very died on April 2, 1885. Earl Cairns was a very eminent lawyer, statesman and judge. From 1852 to 1866 he represented Belfast in Parliament. He was knighted in 1885, raised to the peerage in 1867 and was made Viscount and Earl in 1878.

Now that she is to wed again Americans in London recall the early history of the Duchess. As Lillian Price, daughter of a commander of the United States Navy, she was one of the belies of Troy, N. Y., her birthplace, twenty years ago.

In 1879, while on a visit to Washington, she met Louis C. Hamersley of New York. He was the son of Andrew Gordan Hamersley, noted for his eccentricities and great wealth. He married Miss Price in 1880, and took her to his father's mansion, at No. 227 Fifth avenue. The old gentleman died in 1883, leaving his fortune of $6,000,000 or $7,000,000 to his nue. The old gentleman died in 1883, leaving his fortune of $0,000,000 to his son. Louis became dangerously ill shortly afterwards, but the careful nursing of, his wife brought him back to health. But he fell ill again a few months later and died. The story of the will contest is well known. The will left to Mrs. Hamersly a life interest in the entire estate, but contains the curious provision that in event of issue of the marriage surviving his wife, if upon her demise the estate should go to male issue of his cousin, J. Hooker Ham ley, and to the male issue of such as previously died leaving issue. In event his cousin dying without issue the estate upon the death of his wife, should go to charitable ixstitutions as his wife's will should designate.

Mrs. Hamersley was now owner for life of the Hamersley millions, but the Mason family, into which the elder Humersley had married, were dissatisfied, and the great will contest which has been waging for so many years was begun. J. Hooker Hamersley, at that time a buchelor, sought, it is said, to solve the legal problem by marrying the widow, but he afterwards married someone else.

Meanwhile, in 1887, the Duke of Mariboing his fortune of $6,000,000 or $7,000,000 to h widow, but he afterwards married someone else.

Meanwhile, in 1887, the Duke of Mariborough came to this country and met Mrs. Hamersley in New York. The Duke, who had some time before been divorced from his wife, was so captivated that he paid a second visit to this country, this time for the purpose of carrying back Mrs. Hamersley as a bride. In June, 1883, a civil marriage ceremony was performed by Mayor Hewitt, making Mrs. Hamersley, then 3t years of age, an "American Duchess." A religious ceremony at the Hamersley Fifth avenue mansion followed.

at the hathersley Fifth avenue mansion followed.

The Duke, on account of his recent divorce case, was not in very good repute in English society, and, though he had famous Blenheim Castle, the rain was coming in through the roof. The Hamersley millions were tied up in litigation. In the face of all these obstacles the "American Duchess" won a complete triumph. She obtained, after a hot legal struggle, some Hamersley money, and with it worked wonders in England, reviving the ancient splendor of the house of Mariborough.

On Nov. 9, 1892, the Duke of Mariborough was found dead in his bed at Blenheim. His demise was due to heart failure. He left his wife insurance policies for $1,000,000.

BROUGHT HER BACK

Edwin Broadbridge Returns With His Truant Wife Maggie.

SHE ELOPED LAST AUGUST WITH HIS BEOTHER GEORGE.

Perfidy of a Man Who Was the Becipient of His Brother's Hospitality-The Husband Thinks the Woman Was Under a Hypnotic Spell-The Couple Found at Memphis.

This is the story of violated hospitality, a woman's weakness, a brother's perfidy, a husband's lorgiveness.

The last chapter was ended this morning when Edwin Broadbridge and his wife Maggie stepped off the Mobile & Ohio train at the Union Depot and from there went to their former home, 1321 North Tenth street, where the erring mother was reunited with the two children whose father she had deserted four months ago for a handsomer

The handsome man in this case was a brother-in-law, George Broadbridge, of Toronto, Canada. Edwin Broadbridge keeps a small chop house on Franklin avenue near Thirteenth street. He has been in the restaurant business in St. Louis at various places for the past six years. Before that he had bee in Memphis, previous to that in England. He was born in Toronto, Canada, but left his ome ten years ago. After drifting to St. Louis he married his present wife and settled down. He often wished to see his older brother George, who had been his boyhood compan-ion. One day last July he unexpectedly met his brother on Washington avenue. He took him home, introduced him to his wife and made him welcome in every way. One day he came home to find his wife and brother missing. His brother's perfitty dumbfounded him. He determined on revenge and tracked them until a few days ago they were located in Mem-phis. He went there and confronted them. But to punish the brother legally would in volve punishing the wife. Through this the betrayer of his hospitality escaped the hand of the law. The erring wife was won back and forgiven.

THE HUSBAND'S STORY.

Mr.Edwin Broadbridge was seen this morning at his home, 1321 North Tenth street. He made a full statement of his troubles. "This is all due," he said, "to that villain George Broadbridge; a blacker-hearted ingrate does not breathe. He seems to have but one object in life, to draw women under his spell and ruin them. I had not seen him since I left home ten years ago and I remembered him as a big, broad-shouldered, handsome man who was my protector and friend. Certain things I heard of his doings made me more anxious to see him and speak with him. One day while walking on Washington avenue I met him unexpectedly near Twelfth street. He seemed happy to see me. He explained away a good many things I told him I had heard of him, and I brought him to my home. He grew very friendly with my wife, and they got in the habit of going out together, but he was my brother and I thought nothing of it. When they went away I realised what a fool I had been. not breathe. He seems to have but one ob-"My wife had no reason for leaving me, but I believe she could not help herself."

HYPNOTIZED HER.
"Some men have the power of influencing women as though they had them under whole thing I think it was through some brepared to kill him and would have done so the slightest provocation. In answer to sneers I swore out a warrant against him adultery. Then he weakened, look my wife away, paid costs for the warrant and dismissed it, took the train for St. Louis. I would ave given any money to have had an opportunity to punish him for his crime but the law is such that the woman would have had to sufer with him. He is my brother, yet I have nothing but bitterness in my heart against him and it hope he will yet meet his desorts. It is n his nature to act as he did. It was not his Its lofteness. What is worse, he has deserted his wife and four children in Montreal. The poor woman was here a year ago searching for him.

"I can hardly blame my wife. A woman is weak by nature and under his spell she forgot her duty for the first and only time. She has come back to her home and children now and the world has no right to be harder on her than I am. I will protect her and teach her to be a good mother to our children.

From the Youth's Companion. A little girl made a great clamor one night after she had gone to bed, insisting that a ertain doll named Elizabeth should be brought up stairs to her. Her mother finally called up to her, after having commanded her two or three times to keep still: "If I come up, Mary, I shall certainly whip

"And lright, mamma," said the little girl, choking back a sob, "and when you come up p-p-please bring Elizabeth."
Another child, a boy, behaved so badly that his father said to him:
"My boy, I shall certainly have to buy a whip to punish you with."
"And after you've whipped me," said the boy, his face lighting dp. "may I take the wnip to play norse with."

SOME FAMOUS DWARFS.

One Was Served in a Cold Pie, Anoth er Wore a Car's Skin.

From Harper's Young People.
One of the most celebrated of little men the whole thing I think it was through some such influence that George won my wife from me. She was a good woman, quiet, not in the least disposed to be wild. She was conferted with me and her children until he had the was in the house a week she had no will of her own. She obeyed him implicitly in whatever he wished. She has told me she could not help it. He is a big tail fellow, handsome, well educated and has a very magnetic manner. He mastered he was the held on the light had been inclination. I do not think he cared for her beyond that. They went away in August. I heard they were in chicago, but did not attempt to follow them. Then I learned from my friends in Memphis that they were living there and my wife seemed unhappy. I went down to her, I ceiling that if I could see her and spenk to her I could break the spell he held over her. She cried when I came to her, and in my ou can win her back, he sneered. the court; was once almost drowned in a basin of water, and would have been blown into the Thames but for a shrub that saved him. But Lord Minimus (ashe wasidabbed) really had his doughty adventures; was sent on diplomatic missions; fell into the hands of a Turkish pirate, who carried him off a prisoner to Barbary, and finally distinguished himself by shooting a Mr. Crofts in a duel, that gentleman having at first come to answer the small man's challenge armed only with a syringe filled with water. A contemporary of Jeffrey was Richard Gibson, a Lilliputian who studied under Sir Peter Lely, painted very creditable historical pieces and miniature portraits, and taught drawing to the royal Princesses Mary and Elizabeth, who were afterwards queens of England. He was appointed, in his youth, page of the back stairs, and was married to annie Shepherd, another court dwart exactly his own height, having a most brilliant wedding. King Charles giving away the bride, while the Queen presented her with a diamond ring, and Edmund Waller, the poet to their Majesties, composed a poem on the event, This diminuitive pair, a feet 10 inches high, passed a long and happy life together, and had nine children, five of whom grew to maturity and were full ordinary size.

Commercial Notes.

New Orleans cleared for Liverpool 8,574 bu wheat. It is asserted that the movement of hogs is Moy was the smallest for a long period of years. The Chicago Economist flures out that there are only 40,000,000 bu table exported between now and next July.

Officials of the Southern, Eastern and Western railroads are of the belief that the corn crop was never so slow in moving.

The late mail advices from the Argentine are that the wheat crop will be a fine one, although the estimates that it will be 20 per cent more than last year are somewhat excessive.

London papers say that the disposition of Russia to sell wheat so treely at the unusually low prices indicates a great super-abundance of wheat, east indicate in the first months of the errop year have been about 22,690,000 bu, against 26,677,000 bu less year. Duluth 18,917,000 bu, against 19,457,000. The lotted is 4,607,000 days against 46,364,000 bu last year and 48,642,000 bu two years ago.

Winnippe Commercial—The feeling in Manitoba country markets is firmer, as the impression prevails that a large portion of the evop has passed out of farmers' hands. The outlook is for a duil winter in country markets and miliers will wants good portion of the wheat the likely to be marketed. The approaching close of navigation is therefore not felt as much in reducing prices as it otherwise would.

from Blue and Gray. Like all great public characters, whose lives are the common property of their countrymen, Patrick Henry has been made the central figure of many interesting tales, some doubtless authentic, but many more savoring of the apocryphal. The following anecdote, whether true wholly or in part, or purely mythical, shows the spirit of dote, whether true whoily or in part, or purely mythical, shows the spirit of perfect confidence in which the people of Virginia regarded him:

When Cornwallis made his great raid into Virginia, in 1781, the Legislature fled from Richmond to Charlotteeville, but the nearer approach of the British caused the House to break up suddenly and in some distorter on the 4th of June. It is related that Henry, accompanied by Benjamin Harrison, John Tyler, and Col. Christine, fleeing from the redconts, stopped one evening at a lowly cabin in the hills and asked for food. An old woman who answered their summons demanded of them who they were. Henry, who acted as spokesman, replied: "We are members of the Legislature, and lawe been compelied to leave Charlottesville on account of the approach of the enemy," "Ride on, then, ye cowardly knaves," she replied in righteous wrath. "My husband and sons have gone to Charlottesville to fight for ye, and you are running away like curs, Clear out, ye shall have nothing here!" "But," expostulated Mr. Henry, "we were obliged to fly. We could not see the Legislature broken up. Why, here is the Speaker, Mr. Harrison; you don't think he would have fled his to been necessary?" "I always thought a great deal of Mr. Harrison; till now." replied the woman, "in low under the woman, "replied the woman," and she was about to close the door. "Hold, good woman." urged Mr. Henry, 'you unus know that Mr. Tyler or Col. Christine would hot take to fight without good reason, would they?" "No, indeed," she said. "But they are here," said Mr. Henry, pointing to his companions. The old woman gazed at the party, but rejoined: "No matter; we love these gentlemen, but if they have ron away from the British they shall have nothing to eat in my house." In this extremity Mr. Tyler stepled forward and said: "Whit then, if that is Patrick Heary, it, somit never do such a disreputable, cowardly act!" "But this is Patrick Heary, it, sould never do such a disreputable, cowardly act!" Well, then, if that is Patrick He

Death of Mrs. Boyd.

The announcement of the death of Mrs. Hallie Francis Boyd of 4040 Delmar avenue, wite of Wm. S. Boyd, will be a severe shock to many friends who have heard nothing of wite of Wm. S. Boyd, will be a severe shock to many friends who have heard nothing of her tilness. Newspaper reports of the past week have mentioned her as nursing her brother Sid Francis, who now lies at the point of death from pneumonia. Her death occurred at midnight last night. On Friday last she caught cold. She had been untiring in her attendance on her sick brother and the cold made inroads on her weakened constitution. Sunday the doctors attending her brother found she was suffering from acute pneumonia, aggravated by la grippe. Drs. Mulhall and Bremer did all they could for her, but she sank rapidly. She died surrounded by her family and relatives. She leaves three children, aged 16, 14 and 6, and a husband, Wm. S. Boyd, Secretary of the D. R. Francis Bros.' Commission Co.

The death of Mrs. Boyd was not announced to her brother, Sid Francis, owing to his critical condition.

Mrs. Boyd was known to a wide circle of friends. Though holding a commanding place in society she was unostentatious in manner and dress. She was devoted to her family, and was noted for her particular earnestness in deeds of charity and church work. She will be sadly missed by many during the coming winter who have learned before her goodness of heart. The funeral service will take place to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, from Grand Avenue Presbyterian Church.

Col. Chris W. Eilerbe, a brother-in-law of ex-Gov. Francis, is also laid up with pneumonia, being confined at Mr. Francis' house. Col. Ellerbe lives at Ferguson, but his wife wanted him in the city so she could nurse both him and her brother.

Bit Off His Wife's Nose.

Alfred May, who lives with his wife at 1034 Market street, found her and several female neighbors drinking beer in their front room yesterday afternoon. He remonstrated and his wife told him to go to bed. He went up to the third floor, where his wife followed him. He selzed her and beat her and wound up by biting off her nose. He then ran into his bed-room and selzing a pair of scissors jabbed the blades into his breast several Dispute Between Sidewalk Layers.

Two gangs of workmen who claimed the right to lay a granitoid sidewalk at Twenty-second and Market streets yesterday, came near creating a riot. One gang was employed by City Contractor Heman and the other by a private contractor. The timely arrival of a squad of police prevented a fight. Neither gang was allowed to do the work and the matter will be referred to the Board of Public Improvements for adjustment.

MAKING WHITE PAPER. A Rhode Island Mechanic Has Devised From the Boston Commercial-Bulletin

A mechanic in a mill at Providence, R. I. has invented a new method for whitening paper. An expert invited your correspondent to go with him and see the contrivance. Here, near the center of the inventor's room stands a large, square table with a wooden top. On this top, which is about ten feet square, are the various apparatus used in imparting me the various apparatus used in imparting me-chanically a whiter color to the paper stock than can be procured in any other way. Sul-plur whitens anything. Every mill man knows this. Put a pine board in an air-tight chamber with burning sulphur over night, and in the morning the yellow-colored and dirty-looking board will have been made as white as snow by the powerful fumes. The same principle is applied in this new process of whitening low-grade paper stock, but the method of application is quite peculiar to the new process, for it does the work very thor-oughly.

new process, for it does the work very thoroughly.

It used to take a month to whiten goods; then the time was reduced to ten days. The big mills of the country can now bleach in a day and night. The inventor of the process sets forth the statement that he can bleach the worst kind of paper stock in six hours. The stand upon which the machine rests is the top of a big table. To this is fixed a large copper chamber. A common pump is employed with which to pump the air from the interior of the chamber. The goods to be whitened are put inside the chamber, the doors are secured, the pump started and then as fast as the air is pumped out a jet of bleaching compound is admitted. The removal of the air from the chamber, of course, means the removal of the same from the fiber of the paper. Hence, when the compound enters, there is nothing to hinder the fumes from penetrating the fiber of the paper to its foundation. It is done very quickly, too, as no kindrances are presented. In common ways of bleaching, the presence of the air in the fibers offers a great bar to the effects of the sulphur; remove the air and this difficulty is overcome.

The expert and your correspondent examined the apparatus from top to bottom, and investigated all its details. As a result we are ready to pronounce the idea as quite a novel one, and, unless some unforeseen accident occurs, the thing may be of great practical use in the paper mill before the close of the year. The fact that the whitening of low grades of stock can be accomplished in a few hours by the invention ought to be sufficient to warrant its usefulness.

Not a Pad Idea.

From the Northwest Magazine. A St. Louis physician is querying to know why marriage ceremonies should not be per-formed by doctors of medicine, instead of formed by doctors of medicine, instead of having the authority lodged in the hands of doctors of divinity and other ministers. He thinks it would be a good thing for this country if the doctors were given the power and exercised it properly. "If I had my way," he says, "no two persons would be united for life unless they had good strong, sound physical make-ups. Then I would never marry two blondes, but would always require a blonde to get a brunette for a partner. If this were done we should become more beautiful as a race and stronger and longer lived,

The Foot Ball Player

From the Chicago Herald. The foot ball player is not pleasant to look upen. He has not the agreeable outward eeming of the trained boxer, stripped to the waist, his nether limbs incased in tights, his body gracefully posed for attack or defense. He suffers by comparison with the base bail player, whose tasteful uniform sets off his athletic figure. He is at a disadvantage even in competition with the humpbacked bicycle rider, who is certainly not a thing of beauty. His whole appearance is against him. He looks like a bundle of old clothes topped off with a window mop. His countenance is scarred and abraded, his expression stolid and forbidding. His maneuvers, too, are of the earth earthy. He wallows in mud; he thrashes around with his heels. He leaps into the air only to fail, writhing and twisting, upon other members of his tribe, also writhing and twisting, until the piled up mass looks like a knot of signatic angleworms. Yet he is the idol of the hour, envied of the young men, beloved of waist, his nether limbs incased in tights, his

A Huge Log Plunging Into the Water

Discovers a Mine of Wealth. From the Seattle Telegraph. Snoqualmie Falls, in this State, has developed an attraction not down on the guide ooks. The story is vouched for by reputaole men working on that stream.

A big piece of quartz bowlder, rich in the precious metal, has been secured from an unknown depth directly underneath the huge fall of water, and the most wonderful huge fall of water, and the most wonderful part of the story is the manner in which this sparkling and precious stone was secured from a place almost unapproachable.

Running logs over the 265-foot fail has been a custom for many years past, and there is no prettler sight in the world than to see the giant sticks shoot out into space and then drop, head on into the roaring water below. During the shooting of the logs one particular log went over recently and shot straight downward and was soon lost in the pool below. After it had risen to the surface and floated down stream it was seen to have a rock imbedded in one end which, upon examination, was found to be quartz rich in gold.

gold.

The only explanation is that the log in the mad plunge into the pool under the falls came in contact with some ledge of gold with force enough to imbed the piece found in the firm wood.

THE ART OF EATING.

Few People Know How to Order a Din-

From the Buffalo Express.
"When my children get to the proper age," said the man who was smoking a brief pipe, "I intend to have them taken in hand age, "said the man who was smoking a brier pipe, "I intend to have them taken in hand by some competent person and given a thorough instruction in the art of eating, and, further, in the science of finding out what to eat and ordering."

"What do you mean?" inquired the man who sat next to him.

"I mean this: The average American citizen is woefully deficient in knowledge of what he can get to eat. He falls down when it comes to ordering a dinner. The great majority of people in this country are brought up frugally at home and do not know anything but the commonest dishes. The consequence is that when a man goes into a restaurant for dinner or to a hotel he gazes helpiessly at the bill of fare and sees many things of which he does not know the component parts. He dares not order anything that he is not sure of, for fear of ridicule, and he falls back on rosst beef, and mashed potatoes. The fact is, he doesn't know anything but roast beef. Same way in a restaurant. When a waiter showes a bill of fare under a man's nose, nine times out of ten he will look it over and then say, 'Gimme a steak and some fried potatoes.' Now, the man who does this, and nearly every one of us does do it day after day, doesn't want roast beef, He is sick unto death of steaks and fried potatoes. He loathes ham and deggs, and yet he keeps on ordering them in a dreary and dyspeptic succession, because he don't know any better and he is too froud to confess his ignorance. It's that way with me, and I'll betit's that way with me, and I'll betit's that way with most of yos. I am going to relieve my children of all these things. They're going to know what's what when it comes to eating. 'No roas' beef domination's shall be my household slogaa.'' And the rest of the party thought it over and concluded that he was pretty nearly right.
